GIVE AID TO FORTUNATE SISTER

of American Club and ers Assist a Frisco Refugee.

It seems that Mrs. Webber tried to save her trunk, and dragged it through the streets of San Francisco in her endeavor to reach Oakland. While so doing she sustained a severe injury that has since troubled her greatly.

The doctors wanted to operate on her, but she would not listen to it and said if she had to die she preferred dying among her own people. She had an aunt in Sacramento, who, she said, would take care of her. The W. R. C. was not able to contribute, so they called on the Women's American club, which was represented by Mrs. Lee Chamberlain and Mrs. William Pansler.

Realizing that the money appropriated by the club was not enough to do all that was necessary, then ladies in turn called on Tom Pitt, chairman of the relief committee, who gave them authority to purchase everything needed and get Mrs. Webber ready for the trip to Sacramento at 10:30 this morning.

Clothing Was Purchased.
Although the clothes were closing when the ladies reached them last evening, they succeeded in getting sufficient clothing. The Elks and Masons combined and furnished transportation, herbs and sufficient money for expenses. They also telegraphed Mrs. Webber's aunt in Sacramento of her coming.

Six More Machines.
The County Commissioners and the chairman of the various political party city committees met again Thursday morning to further consider the redistricting of the city. A conclusion was reached to recommend the purchasing of six more voting machines. This will give a machine for each of the forty-one districts that have been decided upon and also one machine to be kept in reserve.

CLOSING UP ON THE RATE BILL

Numerous Amendments Take Up Most of the Time in Senate.

FACETIOUS AMENDMENTS SUGGESTED BY SENATORS

Penalty Clause Made to Apply to Both Shippers and Carriers.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Senate today received another installment of Senator Bailey's version of the effort to secure an understanding between the Democratic Senators and the President on the terms of the Railroad Rate bill, and in presenting it he included the memoranda of former Senator Chandler to the President, on which the charges of bad faith against Mr. Bailey have been predicated. The Texas Senator again arraigned his critics in sharp language.

Mostly Talked Rate Bill.
With the exception of Mr. Bailey's digression, the entire day was devoted to a review by the Senate of the amendments to the rate bill made in committee of the whole, and covered somewhat more than half of the measure. There was a prospect of concluding the reading until the section granting to the Interstate Commerce commission power to fix rates was reached and the question of the constitutionality of that provision was raised.

One Clause Attacked.
The attack was made on the clause giving to the commission discretion on the power of the preserving rates, and a long debate ensued. The question was still under discussion when the day came to a close. The clause was sharply attacked by Senators Teller, Knox and Foraker. Mr. Knox expressed doubt whether the bill would be constitutional even with the discretionary power omitted and it was Mr. Foraker's opinion that it would not.

Anti-Pass Provision.
The anti-pass provision was then taken up, and a new draft by Senator Culberson was adopted in place of the amendment adopted yesterday. The only change made was in phraseology and all the classes specified yesterday were excepted. The provision was still further amended, at the instance of Senator Hansbrough, so as to make the penalty apply to persons asking and accepting passes as well as to those granting them. The penalty is a fine of from $100 to $2000.

Senator Doolittle moved to add traveling secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., and the amendment was accepted.

Facetious Amendments.
Senator Hale then moved to include "baseball and football players," and Senator McLaughlin "widows and orphans." Both were voted down amid laughter. The amendment as modified, was then finally accepted.

The provision prohibiting common carriers from transporting articles of their own production was then taken up, and after some changes in phraseology the amendment was agreed to. There were several efforts to extend the time when the provision shall go into effect, but they were unsuccessful.

Senator Stole made an ineffectual effort to have pipe lines excepted, and Senator Piles made several efforts to have the provision apply only to common carriers, whose principal business is that of common carriers.

Penalty Clause Added.
Senator LaFollette secured the addition of a penalty clause for a violation of the provision requiring railroad companies to put in switches and supply cars to shippers.

The amendments to section 2, dealing with railroad tariff schedules, were all accepted without discussion, and it looked for a time as if the entire section might be disposed of very speedily, until Senator Lodge sought to have the words "knowingly and willfully" inserted in connection with the penalty for granting rebates or discriminating in favor of any shipper. The amendment precipitated debate.

Discussing the Penalty.
This controversy took the shape of a discussion of the efficacy of the imprisonment penalty for a violation of the Interstate Commerce law, and was participated in by Messrs. Foraker, LaFollette, Clark of Arkansas, Gallinger, Knox, McCumber and Bailey.

The Texas Senator suggested that if the penalty against both carrier and shipper should stand the Government would find itself without witnesses in the prosecution of offenders. Mr. McCumber declared that the great trusts are "the principal criminals in the rebate matter."

Shippers Included.
The Lodge amendment was accepted, and the provision was agreed to after the acceptance of a suggestion by Senator Stone making the penalty clause explicitly applicable to shippers as well as carriers.

Senator McCumber presented a substitute for his provision imposing a penalty for accepting rebates amounting to three times the amount received, omitting the imprisonment penalty. The substitute was accepted.

Question of Judgment.
When section 4, granting authority to the Interstate Commerce commission to fix rates, was reached, Senator Tillman asked Senator Allison for his opinion as to the propriety of retaining the words "in its judgment" in the clause empowering the commission to prescribe just and reasonable rates.

The Iowa Senator replied that he had consulted several lawyers and was convinced that "the words constitute an essential part of the bill and should be retained."

Tillman Puzzled.
Mr. Tillman said he had been informed that the clause would render the bill unconstitutional and he had intended to strike out the words "in its judgment," saying that he had not found anyone who could tell him what the words mean. If it was desired to say that the words would be construed as rendering the findings of the commission final he thought that there should be an affirmative declaration to that effect.

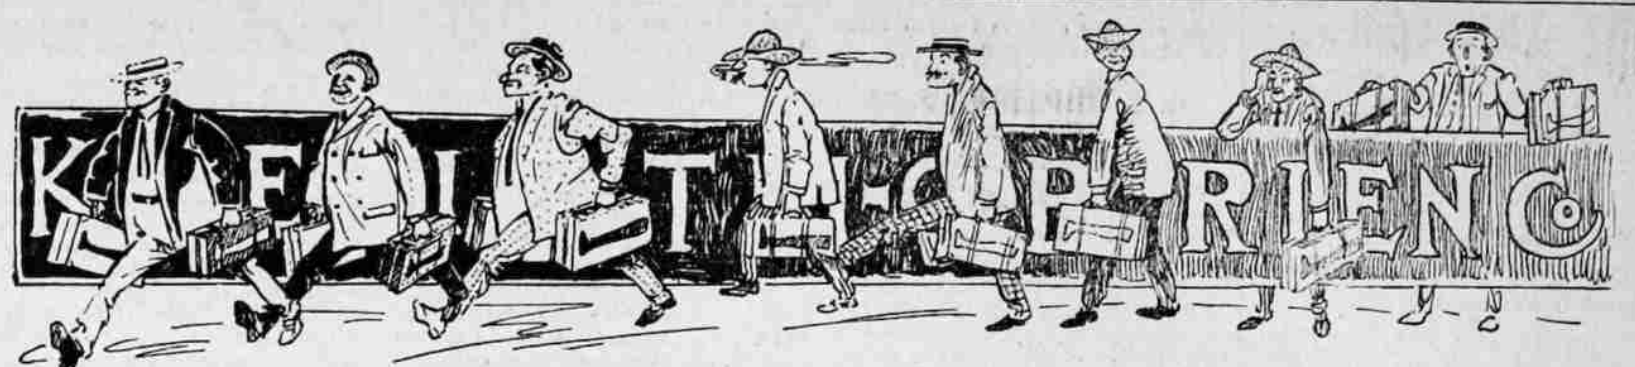

View of Senator Knox.
Mr. Knox quoted his own rate bill, saying that the language used in it was intended to apply to the question of a rate review. He had, he said, submitted the bill because he had been gratuitously arraigned as a railroad Senator, and, desiring to show the contrary, he had hastily presented a bill covering especially the court review question. His clerk had put the bill together and had used the words "in its judgment," and he had not discovered the fact until after the measure was in print. "I want it emphatically understood," he went on, "that if it comes to the proposed law on account of the insertion of these words, I do not want to be held responsible for their presence there."

Calls It Jugglery.
Senator Foraker pronounced the clause "a mere jugglery of words," and contended that it was legally non-essential whether the words "in its judgment" are retained or not, except that he was sure that the retention of the words would be construed as the Senate's own condemnation of the measure. "I regard the law as unconstitutional," he said. "The trouble is that it is fundamentally wrong, and you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear any more than you could when that expression first found utterance."

With Senator Teller's motion to strike out the words "in its judgment" still pending the Senate adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

PUTNAM RECITAL

Pleasing Entertainment Given at the Congregational Church.

The Congregational church was filled with the friends of Mrs. Graham F. Putnam and the pupils who were heard last evening in a pleasing recital. Special work had been given the ensemble music and this part of the programme, as well as the solo numbers, showed excellent work. A number of the pupils had been heard a year ago in a similar musical and a marked improvement in their work was noticeable. The programme was well arranged, the simpler numbers being heard early in the evening and the more difficult ones at the close of the programme.

Special credit is due little John Putnam for the artistic and careful manner in which a group of selections were given--Prelude, Bach, "National Song," Grieg, and "Fantasia," Mozart. The little boy has been heard for the past two years one of the most remarkable of the local pianists for one of his years, and it is indeed probable that his name will be heard in a professional way in the years to come.

Miss Alice Marvin did excellent work in the "Concerto," by Liszt. The young pianist played in an easy, unaffected manner a selection that required careful study in technique and interpretation. Miss Louise Lamson gave a group of five difficult numbers in an artistic manner and was heartily cheered. The programme closed with the "Pie Music" from "Die Walkure," given by Misses Alice Martin, Alvera Martin and Louise Lamson.

Among the others who deserve mention are Misses Louise Jennings, Alvera Martin, Helen Hutchinson, Cordella Strang, Martha Williamson and Dorothy Ingram, Lawrence Putnam and Alex Robertson.

FREDRICKSON FINED

Convicted Furniture Man Gets Off With Light Sentence.

Jerome Fredrickson, the Dinwoodey furniture company's employee, who was on Wednesday adjudged guilty of indecent exposure, was on Thursday fined $10 by Judge Diehl.

This, it will be recalled, was the case which was brought on complaint of Mrs. Louise Gallagher, a school teacher, and a number of other ladies, who gave but slight assistance to the City Attorney in the prosecution of the defendant. This fact, coupled with the positive proof that Fredrickson was in a beastly state of drunkenness when he committed the graver offense, operated to secure the light sentence which the court imposed.

Committed to Hospital.

Agnes Benson, aged 15 years, was committed to the mental hospital at Provo by Judge Armstrong in the Third District court Thursday.
